Sontia appoints Business Development Head

PRESS RELEASE: 15th January 2009

Sontia Logic Limited announced today the appointment of Peter Evans to assist in Business Development.

Peter, 57, has joined Sontia as business development manager. Originally qualified as an engineer, he has spent over 30 years in the electronics industry joining Sony UK manufacturing at the start of their manufacturing in the UK.

He has held a number of senior management roles in engineering, production and environment and during his time at Sony UK manufacturing, the company won many prestigious awards including The Queens Award in Export and Environment.

Peter will assist in developing relationships with global consumer electronics manufacturers.

Peter Evans commented; "I believe that Sontia's solutions can be incorporated in many of the consumer electronics products offered by Sony, Toshiba, Samsung, Panasonic and the like. I am looking forward to utilizing my experience of working within a consumer electronics giant, to assist Sontia's efforts at market penetration".

Chris Vernon, founder and CEO stated "Peter's experience and contacts will speed our market entry into the global consumer electronics multinationals. I look forwards to working with him."
